SCHOOLS TO OPEN

THOUSANDS OF PUPILS WILL RE-TURN TO STUDY TO-MORROW.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC TEACHERS' MEET ING AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

ENROLLMENT IS VERY HEAVY

Superintendent Greenwood Make Some Suggestions on the Study of English Literature and Other Branches-Buildings All Crowded.

Everything is in readiness for the open ing of the public schools to-morrow morn ing. Enrollment at the Central high school has been going on for two weeks and at the Manual Training high school for the past week. Ward school pupils have none of this preliminary form to go through with. They will simply present themselves in their respective rooms at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning. The certificate with which they were dismissed last spring will gain them admission.

The high school attendance will be larger than ever this year. At the Manual Training high school 1,036 pupils have registered. At the Central high school the total enrollment is 1,570. This is divided in the following manner: First year pupils, 154 boys, 346 girls; total, 500. Second year, 138 boys, 296 girls; total, 434. Third year, 91 boys, 235 girls; total, 326, Fourth year, 94 boys, 193 girls; total, 287. Fifth year, 2 boys, 21 girls; total, 23.

Teachers' First Meeting. The first teachers' meeting of the year was held at Central high school vesterday. About 500 were present. After the reading of a paper upon the "Works of Livy," by Miss Lizzle Brua. principal of the Karnes school, Superintendent J. M. Greenwood made his annual address. He made a special point of cleanliness and orderliness as qualities to be first inculcated in the schoolroom.

Professor Greenwood said in part: "The public school system of Kansas City has passed its thirty-second, birthday, and during the short period of its existence it has become better known than any other city system of its size in the country. Its reputation has been achieved under working conditions more favorable to the teaching force patchans then has a went to the teaching force patchans then has a went to the teaching force patchans then has a went to the teaching force patchans then has a went to the teaching force patchans then has a went to the teaching force patchans then has a went to the merry party, yet the three extends the same of the same to the s country. Its reputation has been achieved under working conditions more favorable to the teaching force, perhaps, than has existed in many other localities. In the first place, Kansas City has always been progressive—moved by an enlightened public sentiment which directed the thoughts and actions of a large majority of her citizens. This factor has played an important part in the educational growth and progress of our city schools, and this same spirit is more actively at work now than at any period of our past history. A community, like an individual or a nation, may crystallize and cease to develop into a higher and fuller life. Fortunately for the children and teachers of this city, the focalized sentiment as administered by the school board and backed by the public conscience has always stood in favor of a forward, upward movement in all educational affairs.

"Our schools are in the foremost ranks now, and if they maintain their standing we must never lose sight of a few guiding principles that have molded the work hitherto done; neither should there be any departure from the high ideals which the teachers have sought to realize. Working conditions will not materially change; yet some fluctuations are always liable to occur from year to year, but the general trend should be uniformly upward. It is fitting in this connection to note a few of the cardinal principles which have guided us in the past. The financial question, which is the most vital one connected with a forth and they announced that all of the girls were so beautiful that it was impossible to anight the cheers of the grand that they amnounced that all of the girls were so beautiful that it was impossible to anight the cheers of the grand they also anight prize, and that they amnounced that all of the girls were so beautiful that it was impossible to anight the past with a package of chemic game and the presented with a package of chemic game. With a limited sum of money to purchase sites, erect, equipmaintain the schools and keep the buildings in good repair, to employ the best corps of teachers possible to instruct the pupils; these are the chief duties and about which all minor ones cluster. These duties and their corresponding obligations devolve wholly upon the board of education. The most cursory investigation of these two questions indicates that to find places in which to spend large or small sums of money as some would fain believe, is not the issue; but rather where and how to expend a limited amount to the greatest advantage and where it will do the most good, would most properly represent the condition that has ever confronted the board of this city. The reason of this condition of affairs is obvious. The increase in school population is entirely out of proportion to the increase in the assessed valuation of attable property. This is the history of all thriving towns and cities of this country. When the population is at a standstill, or decreasing, and wealth is steadily increasing, the situation is at a standstill, or decreasing, and wealth is steadily increasing, the situation is a different and the tax budget does not fall so beavily on the taxpaying memmoney to purchase sites, erect, equip, maintain the schools and keep the buildings in good repair, to employ the best corps of teachers possible to instruct the pupils; these are the chief duties and about which all minor ones cluster. These duties and their corresponding obligations devolve wholly upon the board of education. The most cursory investigation of these two questions indicates that to find places in which to spend large or small sums of money as some would fain believe, is not the issue; but rather where and how to expend a limited amount to the greatest advantage and where it will do the most good, would most properly represent the condition that has ever confronted the board of this city. The reason of this condition of affairs is obvious. The increase in school population is entirely out of proportion to the increase in the assessed valuation of taxable property. This is the history of all thriving towns and cities of this country. When the population is at a standstill, or decreasing, and wealth is steadily increasing, the situation is different and the tax budget does not fall so heavily on the tax paging members of the community. From its very nature the financial question, as one of ways and means, is the most vital one conrected with the administration of school affairs. It touches every interest connected with education as a state institution. With limited means at the command of the board the general policy has been, and doubtless will continue to be, how to provide ample and necessary school accommodations and instruction in all the ward and high schools. ons and instruction in all the ward high schools. In the side of instruction it is held that some branches have a higher educational and practical value than others, and that and practical value than others, and that there can be no solid education unless the entire superstructure is founded upon a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the elementary branches. This is the reason for the substantial character of the instruction in the schools of Kansas City, and it explains, furthermore, why they have not been running off after so many of the educational whims of the country. To be able to do some useful things as well as to be their master is worth more to a boy or a girl than to get a confused smattering of many things. The scheme of work has invariably been for the pupil to carry forward what could be done fairly well, keeping steadily in mind the limitations of school work and the child's power to work intelligently. The most superficial reflection will convince one that a Scial reflection will convince one that a child should not be expected to do all child should not be expected to do all things, yet under proper tutclage he ought to acquire the valuable habit of doing his best. Let it be borne in mind that our board makes the best provision possible in the way of buildings, equipments, appliances and opportunities, in furnishing the means and conditions for educating the children committed to our care. A WONDERFUL CURE

A Well Known Virginia Editor Had Almost Given Up, but Was Brought Back to Perfect Health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoen Remedy.

READ HIS EDITORIAL. From the Times, Hillstille, Va.

I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but, noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Collc. Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and also testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was en-tirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man today, and feel as well as I ever did in my

"Within our whole range of literature I do not know a class of writers more worthy of study than some of our leading legal and social writers. For embryo citizens who are destined so soon to enter upon an active career, such knowledge is indispensable. Our institutions are matters of vital importance to our boys and girls.

A considerable part of the time now devoted to English should be given to lines of work not now touched upon, or regarded as lying outside the province of investigation. If literature be the life of a people, it should also prepare for that kind of life in which the child is forced to live, immediately after passing out of school."

eral members of the common council the Kansas City Mutual Telephone Company has been securing a large number of sub scribers. Some parties who are evidently opposed to low telephone rates have been making an active canvass, trying to prevent the people of the city from becoming subscribers to the Kansas City Mutual, but without much success. The proposition offered by the Mutual company is so favorable to the city at large and the users of telephones, that the opposition thus far awakened has simply served to emphasize the fact that no competitor is willing to meet this proposition.

The Mutual company is not abusing anybody, neither a competitor nor any public officer; it believes if a franchise is granted it will be granted to the company offering the best terms and not as a matter of favor to anyone. It bases its whole case upon the simple fact that it has made by far the best proposition ever offered to the city and its people, and it expects to win on that issue. making an active canvass, trying to pre-

Catarrh in any part of the body is serious enough, but catarrh of the stomach is especially so. First: because of the extensive mucous surface involved; and second: because of the disturbance to digestion which inevitably follows.

If the mucous membrane is deranged even slightly, the character of the gastric julce is changed and indigestion is the immediate resuit. Now, catarrh of the mucous membrane lining the stomach is oftener the cause of dyspepsia and indigestion than all other causes combined.

remarkable vitality, yet they gave no hope of recovery.

The Rev. Mr. Houchens was called as pastor of the First Baptist church, of Independence, in July, 1897. Prior to taking charge of the Independence church, he was pastor of a flourishing congregation in Perry, O. T., for several years.

The Rev. Ma F. W. Houchens was a native Missournan, and was born 48 years ago at Sturgeon, Boone county. He attended school at Sturgeon and at Huntsville. For a time he was a student at Yale college, and from that institution he went into the ministry.

He studied theology at the Louisville Baptist theological seminary and fifteen years ago had charge of several small churches in Southern Texas. He was then called to Horton, Kas., where he conducted a successful pastorate. From Horton he went to Perry, O. T., and from Oklahoma came to Independence.

He married Miss Emma Krack, of Louisville, Ky., and their family consists of two boys and a girl.

Automatic Fire Alarm Causes a Con troversy Among Purchasers Who Paid $50,000 for It.

Last spring Chief Hale, of the Kansas City fire department, announced that he had perfected his new automatic fire alarm that, by a phonographic arrangement, was "There is a fire on the tenth floor of the dog pound." Many people were skeptical of the invention until it was reported that the chief had sold the American rights for $50,000.

balance of the money which was due yesterday and was paid to the chief, so it was said.

The purchasers of the new fire alarm were Philip La Tourette, of New York, vice president of the cotton seed oil trust, and Charles K. Morrison, attorney for the Manhattan Elevated road. At the time of the sale they turned over $5.00 to the chief to bind the contract, and the balance was to be paid yesterday. According to good authority the $5.00 was yesterday paid to the inventor, and the deal was considered closed when a Des Moines, Ia., man named Webster Bishop came to the front and demanded that he be given a part interest in the invention on the ground that he had had an understanding with La Tourette and Morrison that he was to be taken in with them in the purchase. The former gentlemen say he was too slow in putting up the money and was, therefore, not entitled to any share in the scheme. Bishop, by his attorney, went before Special Judge J. V. C. Karnes yesterday, who was sitting for Judge Slover, of the circuit court, and got a temporary restraining order to prevent the transfer, which had already been made. The order was made returnable October 9.

In the meantime it is generally believed that Chief Hale has the $50.00 snugly wadded up in his inside pocket, beyond the reach of court orders or injunctions.

A fire was discovered in the barn belong-ing to the H. L. McElroy home, 1512 East Eighth street, about 10 o'clock last night by Robert Yeager and James Tate, who were sitting on the porch of the Yeager home were sitting on the porch of the Yeager home.

Mr. and Mrs. McElroy were in bed and they were awakened by the alarm. The young men ran to the barn and saved the horses and carriages. The fire started in the southwest part of the building, but what caused it is not known. The coachmaa had been gone about two hours. The building was badly burned on the inside before the fire department succeeded in checking the flames.

Water Company Sues Dodge City. The Dodge City Water and Light Company, of Dodge City, Kas., instituted suit yesterday through its attorneys, Wollman, Solomon & Cooper, against Dodge City, Kas., in the United States circuit court at Wichita, Kas. The company sues the city for $4,000 for water furnished to the city. The petition alleges that Dodge City has falled and refused to pay for water and fire protection for the past two years.

549-551 MAIN.

We sold more Groceries and Meats last week than any week in the history of our business. What does all this big Grocery selling mean? It means the people are commencing to realize how much money they can save by trading here. We were never better equipped to handle our enormous trade. We are receiving daily carloads after carloads of new goods direct from the factories. We have taken advantage with our ready cash and purchased them four months ago for 20 per cent less than we could buy them to-day. Consequently we can sell goods for less money than any grocery house in the West and make a fair profit.
